Your expertise in action

We turn specialist sport knowledge into engaging learning and practical resources for coaches, officials, athletes and volunteers.
Working alongside your experts, we shape complex content into clear learning experiences - from the initial learning design through to production and rollout. We combine your knowledge of the sport with our expertise in how people learn.

OUR CAPABILITIES

Digital learning
Rise and Storyline modules, microlearning, scenarios and assessments for coaches, officials, volunteers and internal teams.

Video and storytelling
Interviews, demonstrations, short learning films, animation and screen recordings.

Practical resources
Session guides, checklists, quick reference tools and resources for clubs and communities

Workshops and rollout
Live and blended programmes, facilitator guides and train-the-trainer resources.

Support for internal teams
Specialist design and production capacity, content for your platform, and rollout or hosting support.

“Epic transformed our extensive football knowledge into an engaging digital learning experience.”

Learning for football

Preparing the Football Ferns for their team environment

Epic worked with New Zealand Football to develop an online induction for the Football Ferns. It helps new and returning players understand what it means to represent Aotearoa and arrive ready for their team environment.

The series covers team culture, performance sciences and mindset, medical information, and safeguarding and support. Epic combined specialist content, video and reflection to help players connect the information to their responsibilities and know where to turn for support.

We also created the Community Coaching and Community Referee Pathways for NZF (NZFLearn), which won the 2024 NZATD Best Skills-Based Learning Project.

Inclusion, integrity and play

Epic has worked with Sport NZ on digital learning covering inclusion, youth development, play and integrity. We turn specialist content into engaging experiences that help people apply learning in their sport.

Scenarios, short videos and practical resources give learners opportunities to explore situations they may encounter and consider how to respond in their own sporting communities.

Learning for Waka Ama

A learning hub for the community. Co-designed for sustainable delivery.

Epic co-designed and built a custom online learning platform for Waka Ama Aotearoa NZ, supporting coach education across a network of more than 100 clubs.

We made the experience straightforward for learners and manageable for a small team. Our support included platform design, content-tool recommendations and a collaborative build that enabled client ownership after launch.

Learning for safer sport

Safeguarding microlearning for the Sport Integrity Commission

Epic designed and built short, interactive microlearning modules for the Sport Integrity Commission. Each topic takes about 10 minutes and helps people apply safeguarding principles in sport and recreation.

The learning explores practical situations: recognising concerns, safer travel, coaching environments and online communication. Scenarios and knowledge checks give learners space to recognise concerns and consider appropriate responses before facing similar situations in their role.

Ways to partner with us

Create or refresh a resource.
Develop a new module, video or practical guide - or improve existing content so it is clearer, more engaging and easier to use.

Build a connected learning programme.
Bring digital learning, workshops, video and practical resources together to support a coaching pathway, induction or wider education programme.

Extend your team's capacity.
Bring in specialist learning design and production support for a defined project or programme, working alongside your experts and within your existing systems.

We begin with your audience, what you want them to achieve and the resources you already have. We can work within your existing learning platform and systems, agreeing a practical approach and scope that fits your team, priorities and budget.

A message from Nat

Kia ora,

Is there an upcoming learning project - or an existing resource you would like to improve?

I'd welcome a short conversation about what your organisation needs and how Epic could help. We can start with one priority and find an approach that fits your people, resources and sport.

Ngā mihi,

Nat Gunn
